Dedication

This edition of Per Annos is affectionately dedicated to Miss Mary Morris in grateful appreciation of her years of faithful service and helpful guidance to the students of King's Hall. Upon her retirement she takes with her our heartiest thanks and best wishes.

MISS MARY S. MORRIS

May 1, 1971

Dear Girls,

For nearly 30 years as a Staff member working on 'Per Annos', I marvelled at the skill with which Miss Gillard selected and developed the topic for her annual letter to you. Some topics were selected with reference to the happenings of the day, but all were timeless in their stress on basic values and the importance of human understanding and concern for others.

Through the ages it has been 'might is right' - there have been the great exceptions, but the pages of history have shown the horrors and suffering caused by the big 'I' - whether it be nation or individual. Your generation is fortunate in growing up in a world that is showing more concern for the individual and the welfare of all. Some of you expect all the wrongs to disappear as if by magic - that sensible people will live and act sensibly. Do not be too disappointed at the slow progress that is made - a day or a year cannot undo what centuries of neglect have built up in our society. Also think carefully of the individual.

You, as a member of society, will have to think carefully of your own part in the group. Is your concern for others genuine? Or is it subordinate to self-interest? Talk is easy and cheap. The young are naturally concerned with those things which affect them personally - maturity is recognizing how our actions affect others and create happiness or suffering for those around us. It is not easy to be objective, but to try to become objective is worthwhile. Robert Burns put it very plainly: "O wad some Pow'r the giftie gie us - To see oursel's as others see us!" The picture would not always be a pretty one, but it might be quite salutary. Rose-tinted glasses to soften the harshness of reality should be standard equipment for everyone.

It is fortunate that memory rejects or softens the unpleasant or sad phases of our lives and that the happiest occasions and the best aspects of people's characters are the things that are remembered.

I hope that those of you who are leaving will have many happy memories and many good friends to remind you of your days at King's Hall. I hope that your future will give you interests and activities that will help to make your part of the world a better and a happier place.

To you all, my best wishes for the future!

Mary S. Morris

In Appreciation

Lord Bishop of Quebec and Friend of King's Hall

It is with sincere regret that we say "Good-bye" to one of King's Hall's most trusted friends and supporters. As President of the Corporation he has contributed to the welfare of the school and all the students and staff who have formed part of the school in the last ten years. The girls will remember the Confirmation Service sermons and the short speeches at the Closing which combined a genuine concern for people as individuals and a sense of humour that made his serious statements more comprehensible and more memorable for all his listeners.

I am sure that His Lordship will never forget the beauty of Quebec — beautiful even in the most rigorous of winters, but the charms of the South Pacific will perhaps make up for the fiery hills of Autumn and the purple mists of Spring. To start a new career is a challenge which he is well-equipped to meet. Working with CUSO (Canadian University Service Overseas) in New Guinea or Papua should be an enthralling experience for this inveterate traveller. The Diocese of Quebec will miss him and so will all those who have at one time or another called King's Hall their temporary home. Our good wishes go with you and good health and good fortune in your newly chosen career.

M. S. M.

Miss Morris

Miss Mary Morris came to King's Hall, Compton, in September 1939. After teaching in Calgary, she came to King's Hall to teach Senior History.

Miss Morris has given many years of devoted service to the school. In addition to her teaching duties, she has assisted in countless different ways, especially in her capacity as Senior Mistress — a position which she held for a long period of time. Her careful attention was given to the organization of the Prep Hall, examinations and time-tables. She has given her valuable advice to the editors of the school magazine, and her comments and help at the meetings of the Current Events Club were always appreciated. The presentation of her reports on so many students has always been outstanding. These reports have been of the greatest help to parents, to universities, and to the students themselves.

As Principal of King's Hall for the academic year 1970-1971, Miss Morris has culminated her long years of service to the school. She has guided King's Hall through this year, and has had a great wealth of experience on which to draw.

We all take this opportunity of extending to Miss Morris our sincere thanks, and wish her every happiness and good health in the future.

From the Old Girls . . . .

The words once stated by Julius Caesar, "Veni, vidi, vici", have historical significance for the world and seem applicable to the long period of service of one of Compton's leading educators, Miss Mary Morris.

Miss Morris' interest in Compton began more than three decades ago, when she "came" from Calgary to teach Senior History at King's Hall. Throughout these many years, Miss Morris "saw" King's Hall send forth generations of students. She "saw" the school grow out of its small, modest quarters, and, after the completion of the building programme, move into the new residential facilities of Gillard House.

One measure of the way in which an individual "conquers" is the degree to which she gives of herself for the welfare of others. Through her enthusiasm and hard work, Miss Morris has given of herself and "won" the admiration and affection of her associates, the parents and generations of girls. As teacher, form mistress and Acting Principal, she has served the school, and we welcome this opportunity to acknowledge her valuable contribution to the development of spirit, principles and educational process at King's Hall.

It is with gratitude and respect that the Old Girls of King's Hall will remember the years spent under Miss Morris' guidance. We wish her every success in her future endeavours.

Staff News

Mrs. Martin has presided over the activities of the Home Economics department for the past year. Her home is in Sherbrooke and we have not seen very much of her as her hours at King's Hall have been passed chiefly in the Sewing and Cooking Labs. We have tasted some of the products of her girls and have admired the dresses they made. We extend our best wishes for next year.

Miss McBride came to King's Hall in September 1970 as Director of Physical Education. Her Irish brogue has added much to conversation in the Staff Room as well as around the school and in the Gym. We are sorry that her 'leave' from Ireland is over and that she is returning home this summer. She has made a valuable contribution to school life and her departure is regretted by all. We hope that she will take with her pleasant memories of Canada and will forget the weeks she spent with a cast on her hand — even leprechauns have accidents! Our best wishes go with you, Miss McBride!

Miss Steele came to King's Hall after Thanksgiving as nurse in charge of the Infirmary. While she had a pretty busy time with the 'flu' after Christmas and a few skiing accidents, her domain has been otherwise fairly quiet. The girls and Staff have all appreciated her efforts on their behalf and hope that she will take with her some pleasant memories of her friends here.

Mrs. Fereday returned to England at Christmas time, planning to be married early in the new year. Because of the long postal strike, we have not heard from her. The school extends best wishes to her.

Miss Cummins has been a member of the Staff of King's Hall for two years. She left her home in the West Indies to continue her education in England. She then came to Canada to teach Mathematics and Science, and there are many of the recent graduates who have appreciated her interest in their progress as well as her lively sense of humour. Miss Cummins has stimulated an interest in debating and there have been several quite successful debates both at Compton and in Lennoxville. Her most recent project is the United Nations 'mock' session. She has been a member of, as well as in charge of, the Drivers' 'Ed' group. During the course of this windy and very snowy winter her thoughts have naturally been turning towards the warm sun and shining sands of her home island. The 'pull' became too strong and she plans to return to the islands. We wish her every success in her new position at her old school.

Miss Kenny reversed the usual routine and went from her home in the United States to teach in England. Her return to North America brought her to King's Hall where she has been in charge of Senior English for two years. Per Annos has flourished under her guidance, and because of her interest in plays the girls have had more than the usual number of expeditions to Lennoxville and Sherbrooke to plays and dramatic readings.

Her heart is really in Ireland, though there was a brief period in which she showed an interest in some facets of our Nation's Capital. She leaves the beauty of the Eastern Townships for the flat Canadian 'Middle West' — Toronto. Our thanks for all that she has done for King's Hall go with her as well as our best wishes for the future.

Miss Richardson bounced into King's Hall four years ago. Her unlimited energy and enthusiasm have survived and her next stop is to be on the Pacific Coast. At King's Hall — as well as the academic work in the Geography Room — a very active spot — she has master-minded numerous Geography tours to Quebec's major industrial areas. The excellent ski programme established two years ago was chiefly her brain child, and the girls have enjoyed their afternoons at Hillcrest as well as other ski expeditions. Social activities at K.H.C. as well as those at other schools have been carried out successfully with her interested and efficient co-operation. We are sorry to see her go, but we do wish her good luck and success!

Miss Kidd resigned as Principal of King's Hall last June for personal reasons. Her two years at King's Hall were busy ones for her — life in a residential school has very few 'quiet' moments. She had hoped to have more time for language work in the new Lab., but other duties intervened. Miss Kidd's knowledge of the workings of the Department of Education helped greatly to smooth out the transition from the McGill to the Department of Education programme and examinations. The school appreciates all that she did for its welfare in those two years, and we all hope that she is enjoying life in the bustle of Montreal.

Editorial

This is the last term that many of us will spend at Compton, and so we must prepare to adjust to life in a new and different environment. During our time at school, relatively sheltered from the fast-moving world of today, most of us have been grateful for the opportunity to make new friends, to experience life in a closely-knit community, and through these experiences, to find ourselves and develop into responsible citizens.

The student who prepares to leave school this year is perhaps anxious concerning the future, and probably has doubts about her place as an individual in society, but these doubts are soon forgotten. Sadly, however, memories of school friends and of these growing years also fade and are brushed aside by time and new surroundings.

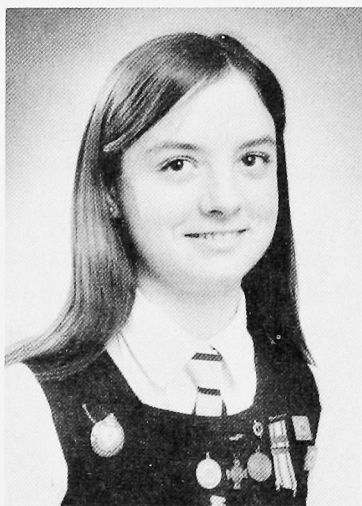

Consequently, how many girls will remember the school in the future and take an active interest in its problems and its students? During the last few years, all of us have been aware of the many and growing problems which threaten the existence of the few remaining independent schools. With a greater need for specialized and vocational training today, the personal instruction and experience gained in a smaller school with limited facilities is often insufficient in this highly competitive society. In spite of the advantages of smaller classes and individual teaching offered by the independent schools, their survival may be in danger.

Though the independent school may eventually be a thing of the past, most of us who have had the opportunity to benefit from the system will always be grateful for what we have gained. I hope that every graduate will keep many happy memories of King's Hall, and will not easily forget those people who have given unselfishly to the school in past years of service.

Acknowledgements

Once again the Editorial Committee has received tremendous assistance in the production of Per Annos. Mrs. Drew and Mrs. Miltimore have helped to type material and many members of staff have cheerfully offered suggestions. Without the photography and professional advice of Doug Gerrish and Paul Lindell of Paul Lindell Photografik, and without the interest and devoted attention of Karl Burczyk, Russell Wheeler and the printers at Progressive Publications, we simply could not manage.

Dear Girls,

We are trying to write this letter, not as praise or degradation of King's Hall but rather as a discussion of consideration for our fellow men.

Let us consider respect. This is the first step toward the process of consideration. We must all take orders and live in a community. Once we realize this, we are able to live in harmony. It is up to each individual to abide by the rules and to understand that everything has its purpose.

We know that personalities do clash and many times we disagree, but we must live and work together to overcome these difficulties in human nature. Consideration itself stems from the idea that the good of the whole is always more important than the selfish interests of the individual.

We wish you all, especially next year's Matrics, the best of luck. Thank you for trying to make this year such a good one.

Love,

Dear MacDonaldites,

Well, the year is drawing to a close, and as we look back, we see happy memories, sad memories, resounding victories and all-time losses. Through thick and thin, MacDonald's "Tiger, fast and sharp" spirit has never failed. There have been some times when House spirit has declined, but never, never did the wearers of the yellow tie allow the flame to die out.

Maybe it is because I am looking at it from a different point of view this year, but I think I can honestly say that I detected a definite resurgence of the old spirit. During the stamp and penny drive, for instance, not a day went by when I was not stopped on my way to classes by a smiling MacDonaldite holding out a palmful of stamps and pennies — or, on returning to my room, was not pleasantly surprised by great quantities of stamps scattered all over my desk. And although, after all the great efforts, we did not win the stamp count, the spirit that was put into it overshadowed the loss.

At this point I should like to give special thanks to our Junior House Head, Ann Setlakwe, who never failed to collect stamps from the Juniors and who was present at Junior sports meets to lead the pack to victory — or to good-natured defeat. The Obstacle Race and the Swim Meet were some of MacDonald's important victories this year.

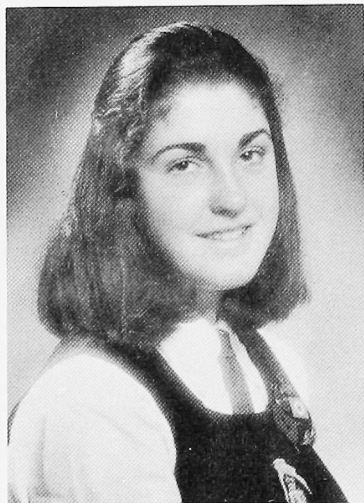

A last word about House spirit — although it has been lagging in the past few years, it is good to see that there is still a little of it left. It may not seem much, but add to that a little push in those competitive activities, a fuller attendance at House meetings, and that little extra umph when it comes to cheering for your House, and you'd be surprised how far it can go. One point in favour of MacDonaldites that I sincerely hope you'll never lose is the ability to accept defeat with a smile on your face and a strong determination to do better next time. This attitude makes winning so much more fun and keeps the competitive spirit among the houses on a friendly note. This is what House spirit is all about.

All power to MacDonald and the best of wishes for next year and all the years to come. And remember to walk tall, walk proud and make those pins shine out.

FAVOURITE EXPRESSION: 9 more days, 8 more days, 7 more days...

Dear Montcalmites,

Although we haven't done well in sports this year, I have complete faith in you for next year. A tendency to lethargy may be natural, but I hope that next year there will be more enthusiasm for and participation in all the House games. Once you do get yourselves started, you will begin to feel a very strong competitive spirit, and this feeling can be very catching.

I can say that you have all been good friends. Whenever I have met you in the corridors, there has always been a "Hi" from someone.

I have found that this year has just flown past. There is one point among others that is good about boarding school. You can learn to live with each other and to put up with each other's faults. This is very important, especially when you leave school and meet other people. Also, if you learn here how to bear disappointments, you will leave school possessing another asset.

I have already said that we haven't done well in sports, but I would like to thank all the Juniors for their participation in the swim meets, badminton tournaments, and the cross-country ski race. I also want to thank Katie Mordell, Montcalm's Junior House Head, for all the stamps that she has collected for the Red Cross.

I wish "good luck" to all the girls who are leaving this year, and to all who are staying here at school. I hope that next year everyone will be a little more enthusiastic. Remember that you belong to Montcalm House. Try to do justice to it, because it is the best House.

Love,

Sally

Dear Rideauites,

This really hasn't been the best year for House spirit. Personally, I feel that the spirit has gone up a notch or two since last year, but I suppose it seems so because I am seeing you from a different point of view.

In sports and in Red Cross work we've done as well as possible. The swim meet and the ski race were really well done, and I want to thank all the girls who participated in them. The volleyball games were equally good, but remember, it's not whether you win or lose, but how you "play the game".

I also want to say thank you to Sally Winsor for taking my place when I wasn't around, and for faithfully bringing me all the stamps and pennies from the Juniors on the upper floor.

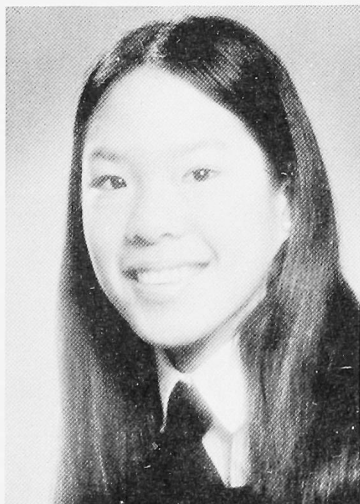

Before I leave, I should like to remind everyone on Rideau to be proud of her House and to remember that it's the best one, no matter what anybody says.

Now I'll say good bye and extend my best wishes to next year's House Head and good luck to all the rest. Take care of Rideau Joe for me next year, because I'll be missing him. Most of all, keep that House spirit glowing.

Love,

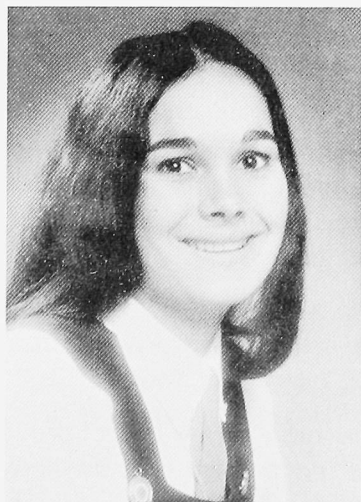

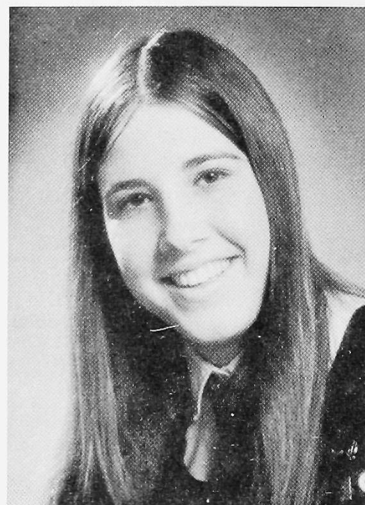

Patsy

Absent: N. Mitrani, D. Papu, W. Roberts, Y. Stevenson.

The most important Grade Ten project this year was the organization of the formal dance held in March. We planned decorations, food and invitations. The gym was decorated in keeping with the theme of a casino, and the band, "Tranquility", from Montreal was enjoyed by everyone. We wish to thank everyone who helped to make this one of the best dances we have ever had.

This year the Grade Tens have made many new acquaintances among the boys at B.C.S., Stanstead and Sterling. We have enjoyed many outings including the tea dance, the Stanstead carnival, and dances at Sterling. This spring has found us sun-bathing, trying to fit into last year's bathing suits, on diet tables and in physical fitness programmes.

Trips have been made to the sugar bush, Lowney's, the paper mill, and we have had a two-day History field trip to Ottawa. All these expeditions were lots of fun and most interesting, and we would like to thank all those who made them possible.

As the year ends we look forward to returning in September when at last we shall be able to occupy the Matric "Chez".

This year Grades Seven and Eight have done a number of interesting things. Near the beginning of the first term, we held a dance in the large lounge and entertained many of the Junior boys from B.C.S. It was great fun. A few weeks later, during the Christmas season, we held our form parties and several staff took part in the festivities. Our Christmas play, "The Dyspeptic Ogre", was directed by Miss Hewson and presented with great success. We also had a few winning entries in the school Talent Show, which was organized by Jane Fuller.

During the Winter Term, many girls attended the winter carnival at B.C.S. as well as the Stanstead carnival. Both dances were enjoyed by everyone.

We hope that during the Summer Term we'll be able to go to a "sugaring off", and look forward to a few walks and form picnics.

Only a few casualties resulted from the year's activities: Pam tripped and broke her finger; Adhis broke her leg during the ski-season; and several of us were confined to the infirmary for a week with 'flu.

Debating

This year, several of the school's debating enthusiasts banded together, and with the help of Miss Cummins, formed the Debating Club. Our activities were not restricted to our own school, as we joined an inter-school league consisting of B.C.S., Stanstead, Alexander Galt Regional School and Richmond Regional School. In the fall, Alison Bell and Lyn Bartram represented King's Hall at an inter-school debate and came second.

During the second term, Tammy Silny and Sandra Westhoff battled valiantly against B.C.S. in a debate here at school, but were defeated by a few points. Later in the term, Lyn and Tammy debated in the B.U. competition for schools from all over the province. Although they came third, the experience was valuable.

In the Summer Term, a model United Nations is planned at B.C.S. and many girls from Grade Ten will participate. The theme will be the hi-jacking problem. On May 6th, the Sherbrooke and District University Women's Club plans to hold a public speaking contest. King's Hall will enter two competitors, to be chosen from the girls in Grades Seven, Eight and Nine.

The Debating Club would like to thank Miss Cummins very much for her infinite patience, hard work, and unswerving devotion to the cause of developing the big mouths of K.H.C.

School Choir

Mr. Roberts, D. Laurie, W. Henry, A. MacCulloch, J. Matthews, V. Fuller, L. Bartram, Miss Hewson, R. Fowler, J. Davis, A. Brown, M. Shirriff, Mrs. Detchon, D. Crause, D. Wood, V. Ming, D. Smith, E. Adair, A. Bell, S. Jondreville, B. Skelton, K. McPhail, M. Lambert, S. Butterworth.

The autumn is always a beautiful season here, and at King's Hall we say our farewells to the last of the warm weather at Thanksgiving. The service for Thanksgiving was held on Sunday, October 11th. The service was a great success for the Choir on account of Miss Hewson's and Mrs. Detchon's unceasing efforts.

The Autumn Term passed quickly, and Christmas was soon upon us. The whole school joined in for a joyous Carol Service on the evening of December 15th. There was also a Christmas service at church, on December 13th, in preparation for the coming festival.

This year the Choir sang with Bishop's College School. We practised and polished the service at Bishop's Chapel. The rest of the school was invited to the service and thoroughly enjoyed the occasion. There were interesting slides shown after the Evensong service.

All the members of the Choir would like to express deepest thanks to Miss Hewson and Mrs. Detchon for their help throughout the year. We also thank Mr. Cruickshank, the Bishop's choir director, for his invitation to sing at B.C.S. and for his help and patience.

Good luck to the Choir in the future.

Drama Report

Set design for Quality Street

This year drama was given a roaring start by the students who put on a Talent Show in the Autumn Term. The skits and exhibitions of hidden talent were entertaining, and the evening was enjoyed by all.

As we neared the Christmas holidays, the Grade Sevens and Eights gave us an amusing evening by putting on a play, "The Dyspeptic Ogre". It was a very relaxing event after exams.

In April a number of girls from Grades Ten and Eleven got together with a few of the boys from B.C.S. to present at Compton a performance of Quality Street. The play was very successful and provided excellent entertainment for an evening. The cast would like to thank Miss Hewson and all the other people who put so much work into its production. The Fourth Act is to be entered in the Drama Festival at Bishop's University. We hope it goes well.

This year the school has made several trips to Bishop's University to attend performances of different varieties, both amusing and serious. We would like to thank all the staff who made it possible for us to see these plays and readings.

Dance Report

"When is the next dance?" is a question frequently asked at K.H.C., but this year the girls have not had to wait long between each affair. The first big splash — the B.C.S. tea dance — was its usual success. The boys had spent all day blowing up huge balloons.

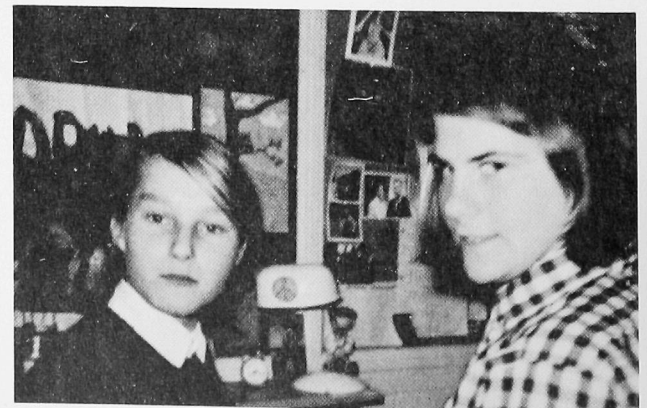

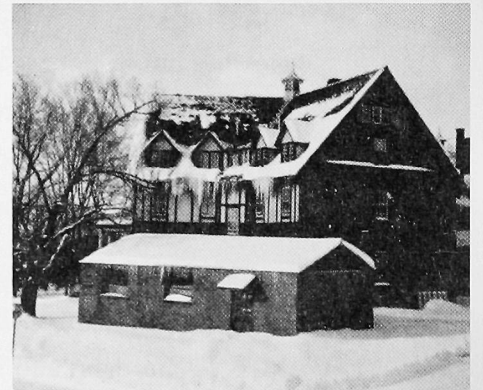

Two high points of the year, the Winter Carnivals at Stanstead featuring Boston's Gunnison Brook — and at B.C.S., sent our girls home glowing but sorry to leave. An enthusiastic busload of Sterling admirers crossed the border to visit our "brother" school, and rumour has it that they thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

It only remained for Compton to outdo herself in turn, and so the Grade Tens, helped along by Miss Richardson and Miss McDonald, worked for months to transform our gym into a scene from "Casino Royale" for the night of the Formal. The band, "Tranquility," really set the mood for the night and everybody was sorry when they stopped playing at one-thirty.

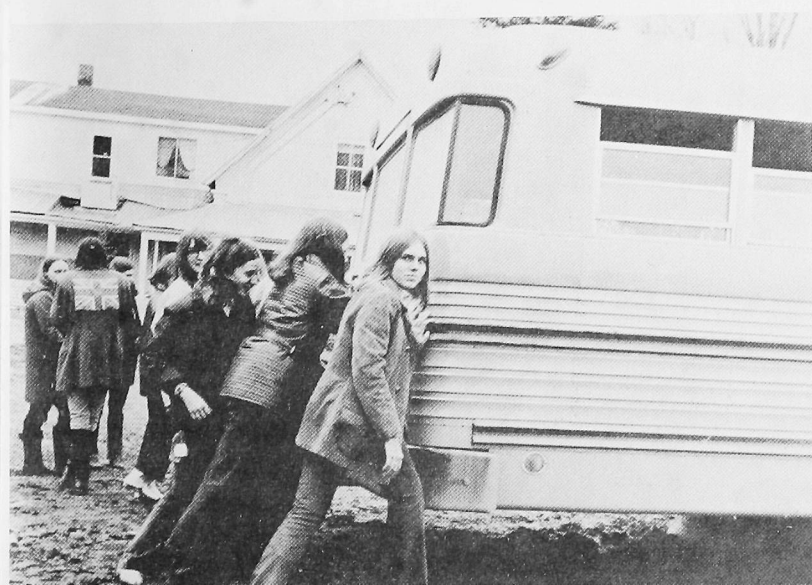

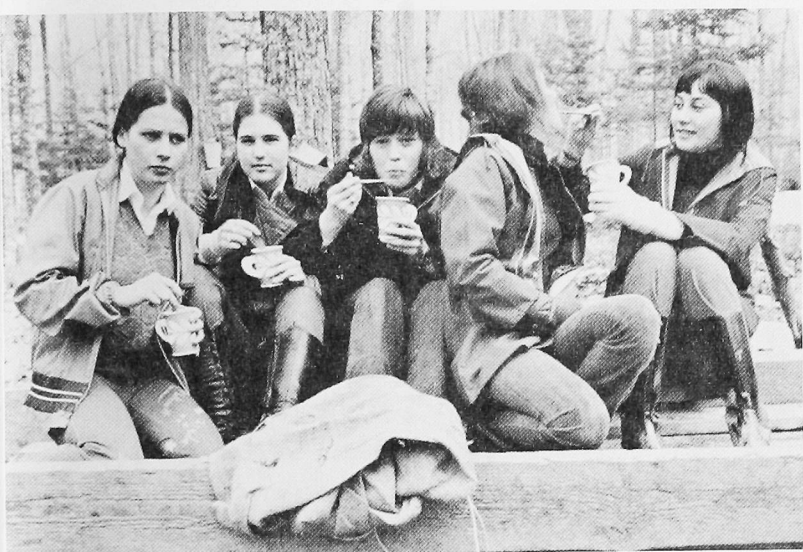

Of course there have been other dances too — the second Sterling dance, the Stanstead football dance . . . and the Bishop's Cadet Formal is coming up soon . . .

A new league put us back in play,
With noon hour practices every day.
Our games were great and lots of fun;
We're proud to say we even won! (sometimes)

With Campbell and McBride to encourage us
And the last minute coaching in our minibus,
Every week in a different place
We played with skill, style and grace! (sometimes)

Our games were played with Coaticook High, and The Compton Convent which is really close by
With our "Bee-Bops" on, we played each game
Which seemed to bring us to our fame! (sometimes)

We finished the season with a special game
At the Stanstead Carnival, which wasn't the same
As they wore their hockey mitts, and confused us all.
The ball was high, 'cause they were tall! (sometimes)

We lost two league games, we really must state,
But it wasn't our skill; we owe it to Fate.
We worked well together in planning our plays
And even Miss McBride we used to amaze! (sometimes)

In spite of our efforts, we didn't win,
But we still were enthused when the going was thin.
We hope next year you'll follow this route
And always "Dribble before you shoot!" (sometimes)

Vaulting

Headsprings . . . handsprings . . . everyone seems keen to improve her skills on the box or the horse. Although the vaulting started late, we are now in full swing getting ready for the Closing gym demonstration. Whether good or bad, everyone is trying her best. Because of all the enthusiasm, we are sure to have the best vaulting ever.

Each Summer Term there is an inter-house track meet. Everyone is eager to participate to earn a few more house points. In May, the school team goes to Sherbrooke to compete against the regional schools. We have never yet won, but there is always the future in which to distinguish ourselves.

Senior Volleyball

Left to right: M. Lambert, C. Zimmerman, W. Henry, B. Skelton, M. Shirriff, J. Kirwin, C. Montano.

The volleyball season was a most enthusiastic one. There were so many keen players that six teams had to be organized to give all the promising players a fair chance. Unfortunately, there was only one outside team to challenge, but there were inter-house and inter-class games to keep the spirit going. We hope to have a better season next year.

Junior Volleyball

Skiing

Skiing was the major sport during the winter, and most of the school took to the slopes at North Hatley every Tuesday afternoon. Owing to frequent bad weather, some of the group lessons had to be postponed or cancelled. Special Sundays were reserved for ski trips to Orford and Hillcrest, and we spent Monday, February 22nd, at Owl's Head where the weather and conditions were excellent.

Towards the end of the season, slalom and obstacle races were held at Hillcrest, and thanks to a generous donation, prizes were presented to the winners. On Sunday, February 21st, an inter-house obstacle ski race took place on a course around the school grounds.

Special thanks to Miss Richardson and Miss Evans for the organization of our ski ventures.

Linda Holliday

Riding

Thanks to Miss Leigh, some of us have enjoyed afternoons of riding at Mr. Wark's stable in Waterville. Two of the four groups have gone on Wednesdays and the other two on Saturdays. The riding programme has been most successful and pleasant, and we hope it may continue.

Badminton

This year the gym has often been occupied with keen and competent badminton players. Many tournaments aroused enthusiasm and also encouraged inter-house competition. Our team will soon participate in a tournament between the Eastern Townships' schools. Since the players have practised hard this year, we hope to do well.

THE LITTLE OLD LADY

The little old lady stood peering out her window, with a tear in her eye, hoping - waiting for something that would never happen.

"Where are they", she cried to herself, "the little children that used to slip under my fence, bringing me birds with broken wings, pearly white stones and bouquets of dandelions? Where is the sunshine that came under my fence, bringing me the greatest worldly treasures?"

And noticing the clouds, she cried.

whenever
the sunbeams dance on the window-sill
i want to get up and dance with them joyous abandoned
naked in the warmth of your love
whenever the eerie silent snow falls deep around us i want to brush your cheek with fragile touch mysterious gentle
a blown kiss scarcely realized
i want to wish you poetry on a rainy day to let you recognize the trembling tears quivering jewel-like caressing your damp face
i wish you could feel the beauty i feel know the anguish i know have the joys i have through me
i do not wish to be all things to all people i only want to be all things to you

GROWING UP

Twenty years ago when I was only a little tyke and old people rumped my hair, our family lived in a little farming community where my father was the local doctor. Owing to the fact that I was so young, 5 Champlain Avenue is now nothing but a blur. Of course my family has told stories of various incidents, but there is one thing I shall never forget, and that is the tree that was in our back yard.

The hugh oak tree stood firmly rooted amid the flowers which my mother, who was a horticulture fanatic, was so proud of. The majestic tree had long since reached maturity, and it stretched until it seemed to reach the sky. Many strong branches extended every which way and little twigs reached out from these branches. The branches were perfect for climbing and swinging from like my old hero, Tarzan. The bright green leaves served as camouflage to hide the tree house I had constructed so laboriously.

This afternoon I had decided to investigate my old tree to satisfy my curiosity. I wanted to see how the tree had fared after all these years. To my amazement the tree had shrunk. It no longer had an awe of grandeur about it; on the contrary it seemed to have withered from the endless years of weathering. The branches drooped and resembled the gnarled fingers of old ladies. Only a few leaves were visible and they were a yellowy green colour.

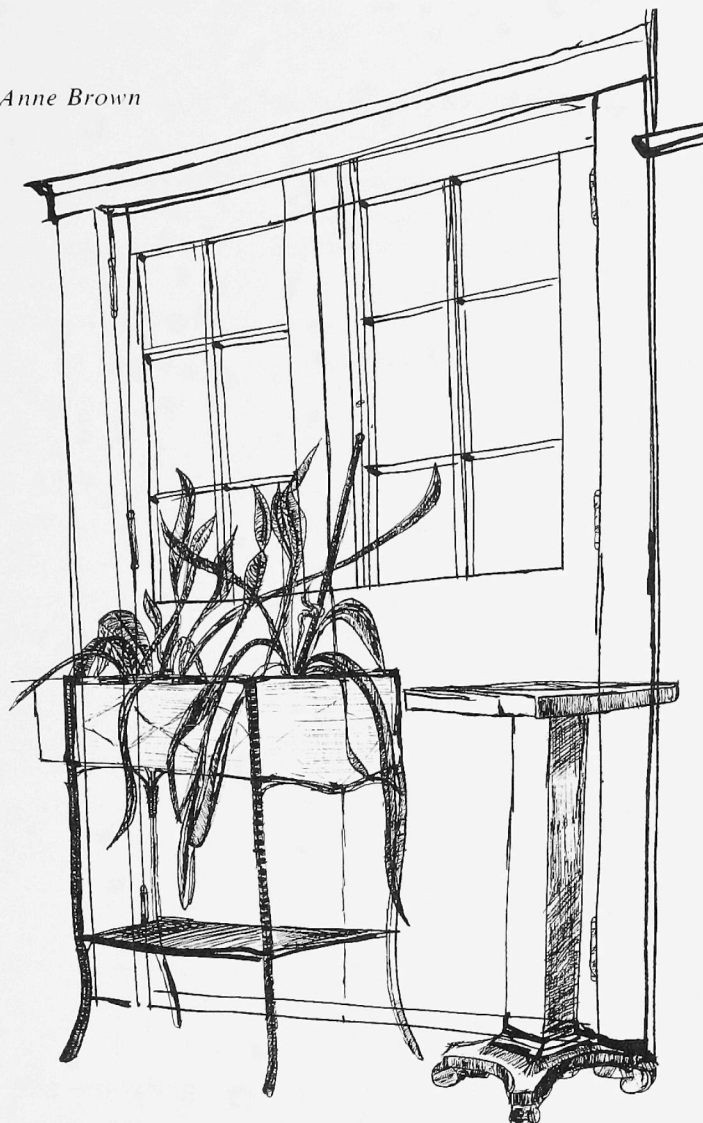

The shock was too great and I sat down and cried.

POINSETTIA DREAMS

A tropical land on the edge of the Sparkling, endless sea
 That gave birth to this red, splashy landscape.
 And drowning in the greenness, in
 The keyed-up steaminess, are
 The animal societies,
 The monkey proprieties — well!
 Of justice they sing,
 Of bananas and of freedom. And,
 In this land on the edge of the sea,
 The sparkling, endless sea,
 I can see the kingdom
 Of my blooms.

Claire Deane,

AN ATTEMPT AT CREATIVE WRITING

Passing by, most everybody smiles.
Why? How can they? How can they lie?
Is it true? Do they really mean it?
The world is filled with hypocrites.
Passing by, very few cry.
Some are glad, some sad,
And the world is going mad.
Most grins are sins.
Better cry than lie.

Dorita Papu,

THE OLD STATION

It used to be that the first thing you saw on arriving was the bright white and green sign proudly proclaiming "White Corners". Now the old sign clung desperately by one hook to a friendly corner of the roof. Some audacious spider had woven a silken web across one side of the board, even daring to trespass on the faint "S" of "Corners".

Old Mrs. Dayne reflected sadly on all this. The last time she had been here, she hadn't been old at all, but a young girl going on her first train trip. Now, she had come on a whim to visit the old station, long forgotten among the tangle of forest that threatened to engulf it from all sides.

Sacrilegious creepers had completely eradicated all traces of the old tracks, and were reaching long insidious green fingers across the broken platform. The ancient doors, formerly massive and dignified, now hung lewdly on one hinge, swaying slightly and groaning with pain every time they did so. Beside them, the benches were lined up against the platform; a group of true veterans they were, lacking legs and arms, and grey from age. Old phantoms still clung half-heartedly to their seats.

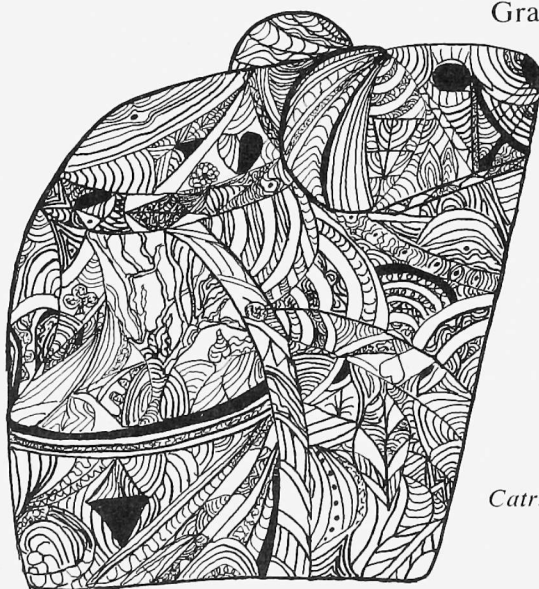

Time had persuaded the formerly docile ivy to run rampant along the unstable walls. Yet even the ivy had suffered from the desertion of the station, and had become the grey-brown colour of the whole building, perhaps out of respect for the grief of the old place.

In the waiting room, old phantoms moved bravely amidst the dust, picking up their skirts over the debris lying thick on the floor. The ticket booth had collapsed long ago, and now only an undignified pile of rubble remained where once the jovial conductor had sold you your dream on paper. Mrs. Dayne remembered that well. Now, as two crows fought bitterly in their nest in a ceiling corner, she realized that the land could no longer restrain her greedy children, and swiftly, silently, they were coming in to retrieve their old territory.

Old boards across the windows swung eerily to and fro, chuckling mysteriously to themselves. Some hand had nailed them across the broken panes and now they were trying to free themselves from their confining nails.

Strange things were happening to the light as it filtered in; misty beams of grey fell softly through intercepting golden rays, creating the disturbing impression of light coming from different sources. Pools of light illuminated ghostly planks, and chased eerie shadows. Mrs. Dayne knew it was time to leave, time to give the old memories and phantoms a chance to sleep once more, but as she went through the gate, she could not resist turning back for one last glance, just in time to see the old sign give up its struggle and fall wearily to the platform among the vines, to lie hidden amidst the rubble.

THE BROOK

*"Clear-couloured stones are vibrating in the brook bed . . .
or the water is."*

Soseki

Deep down under an arch of green, where little bits of sun and sky peep in from above to join the serene quiescence, there is a little bubbly bit of brook. In it are shining jewels. I reach through their icy barrier of water and grasp them and feel their smooth rounded surface as they clink together in my palm. Then I let them fall back into their crystal case.

A LETTER TO A FRIEND

Dear Friend,

I thought I'd take this time off to thank you for helping me find myself, for making me aware that I am a person, for making this life, my life, beautiful, for all the little things. But most of all, please let me thank you for accepting me for what I am, and not the person you feel I ought to be. You have made me feel needed, but still more important, you have made me feel wanted . . . and I love you for it.

In so many ways you have reached out and let me know you were there when I needed you. A great poet once said friends should be few and well chosen, and now that I stop to think of it, that is very true. When I look around me today and see the war, the hate, when I feel the loneliness and the pain, when I experience social discrimination and feel the racial prejudice . . . Friend, it is at times like these I wish you were more than just a figment of my imagination, but I know and I know and I know that that wish can't come true.

THE LORD'S DAY

The world will be closed Sunday
 except for great religious figureheads preaching hate
 or
 national leaders playing God.
 The world will be closed Sunday
 except for enemies
 playing lovers
 or
 strangers in dark holes.
 The world will be closed Sunday
 except for the oppressed
 fighting prejudice with prejudice
 or poor people fighting to stay that way.
 The world will be closed Sunday
 except for students who pretend to be adults
 or
 adults who act like children.
 The world will be open for business Monday
 if you don't preach love or tell the truth
 or know yourself
 or want to be free.

SEABIRDS

Seabirds —
 Old wheeler-dealers,
 Screechers, squealers,
 Carrion mealers.
 Watch it, fish!
 You're a tasty dish
 With one wrong swish
 Of your scaly tail.
 Oh! Sing a song
 Of the talons strong,
 And the beak so long
 And deadly.
 A dig of pain —
 It's battle again!
 And the rising rain
 Is blood.
 The sea is red.
 The fish is dead, and
 It's lost its head
 To the seabird.
 Oh! Sing a song
 For the champion strong —
 And the seabirds throng
 In triumph!

THE FLAME

A
flickering flame,
A symbol of warmth and love:
Cold hands gather round and become warm.
Or a happy child blows on it to usher in a new year.
A newly-wed couple stare over it into one another's eyes:
A flame — a symbol of love.
But a drop of water comes
and the flame sputters,
and crackles
and dies.
Then all is dark.

Louise Stirling,

The rain came down hard, rippling along the gutters, falling to the gravel beneath. From inside, through the window, it looked like tiny silver slivers falling in slow motion from the roof, only that.

DISILLUSION

Life is like a cool, blue candle flame
Calm and quiet in appearance
But inside, something enormously complex
Is going on.
It burns, destroys
But at the same time creates anew.
It is never the same
Yet never changes.
What persists in this luminous heart
Of chemical activity
Is not the substance
But the form.

Barbara Skelton,
Grade Eleven.

MY UTOPIA

A world of building happiness that comes from inside people, my Utopia is love, a corner of my own. A work that I love.
Not peace but tranquility.
People I love for company when I want it. Privacy for thought and work. Lots of beautiful sunsets. Colours that glow and darken against strong, secure, black hills.
A fireplace with glowing coals
on a raging, stormy, winter night.
The dew and birds on an early,
soft, summer morning. A love between all people to pull, bind, keep together. Every one with his own little place in this world. Security for everyone. Less poverty.
A beautiful, young, clean world that people take care of.
Understanding between unhappy generations.

I wonder.

Will this ever happen?
